

Glenda Jones

Instructor of the Practice in English

About Me:

Glenda Jones is a world traveler, writer, reader, and music lover. She loves her family, her pets, the red rocks of Southern Utah, and the entire Rocky Mountain chain. She has been in higher education for over 30 years. She holds a Ph.D from the University of Illinois-Chicago in Rhetoric and Composition. Her specialty is personal narrative and narrative theory. She loves being a student and a teacher.

Where are you from?

Salt Lake City, Utah

What topics or subject areas do you enjoy teaching the most?

Composition, Cultural Studies, Feminist Theory, Women's Literature.

What excites you most about teaching in higher education?

I learn something new every day. I love helping students grow and achieve their goals.

What are your hobbies and other interests?

Glenda likes buying and selling homes, reading, eating world cuisine, and visiting national parks.

What is your main source of motivation or inspiration?

My kids keep me busy, and the universe keeps me inspired.

Why did you choose UT?

Great university, and I get to live in the beautiful red rocks of Utah.

Share one fun or unusual fact about yourself:

I'm a huge fan of bubble gum.